OOP'S CLUB

President, Jay Boomer; Vice-President, Judy Carroll; Treasurer, Alice Lawson; Secretary, Elizabeth Emerson; Faculty Advisor, Mr. Stadden.

The Oop's Club consists of 36 members. An initiation was held last fall for new members from the Junior and Senior classes.

A trip was taken to the White Mountains in New Hampshire on October 3rd, 4th, and 5th. Mr. and Mrs. Stadden were chaperones for the trip. The group spent Friday and Saturday night at the Lodge at Pinkham Notch.

The group left Friday afternoon and reached Gorham, New Hampshire late that night. The next day everyone started to climb Mt. Washington. The mountain was covered with snow and the temperature was very cold, but this fact didn't stop several who climbed to the top. That night everyone visited the Youth Center in Berlin, New Hampshire, where they went swimming and bowling.

Sunday forenoon the group started home, taking the long way through Pinkham Notch and Franconia Notch, where they saw the Old Man of the Mountain, and went up Cannon Mountain in the Aerial Tramway. They also stopped at "The Flume." Then the group went through to Portland, Maine where they met and had supper. Late that night they returned to Southwest Harbor.

Several meetings were held during the year, at which they planned for future trips and showed snapshots of the previous trips.

THE EASTERN MAINE CHAMPIONS

The 1952-53 Pemetic High School basketball team were called together for the first practice in the early fall under the direction of Coach John Killilea.

Instead of electing one Captain for the season as in previous years each Senior on the first team took turns during the season.

They opened the season with a victory over Blue Hill on November 28, but were set back by Ellsworth at their second attempt. They then went on to win 10 games in a row before being defeated once again by Ellsworth. After that they lost two out of their five remaining games, one to Orono and one to Milo.

At the end of the regular season, by the new point system, the team found itself occupying second place in the tournament. After defeating Lubec in the preliminary game, the team went on to win over Washburn in the semi-finals and then defeated Greenville in the finals to bring the Eastern Maine Championship Award to this school for the second time in its history, the first time being in 1948. On March 7, they met Cape Elizabeth, the winner in Western Maine, for the State Class "M" Basketball Crown, but were defeated in an overtime.

Much credit should be extended to the Coach and his boys for the fine job that they did.

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS

Early in the fall tryouts for the varsity cheerleaders were held in the gym under the direction of Miss Riley. The faculty were the judges and those who were chosen were: Captain-Janet Newman, Harriet Lunt, Audrey Wass, Elizabeth Emerson, and Margeurite Hamblen. Nancy Carroll and Patricia Wass were the substitutes.

With the aid of Mrs. Bryer, the Home Economics teacher, the cheerleaders immediately started working on new uniforms. Though it took much time and effort, the results were excellent.

Throughout the season the girls sought various new cheers and motions that helped to lead the team on toward many victories.

JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL

The first basketball practice of the season was held on October first. There were fifty-five boys present at that time. Out of these, thirteen boys were chosen for the Jayvee squad. They were: Alfred and Philip Dow, Jarvis Moore, Elmer Kelley, Wilder Stanley, Edwin Brown, Jay Ramsdell, Keith Clark, Lawrence Ballard, Terry Stanley, Richard Brown, and Berton Willey.

This year a new system was tried. The boys each took turns at being captain of the team.

The Jayvees won the larger percentage of their games this year.

Credit should be given to Coach Killilea and his team. The boys worked hard and played very good ball.

FALL

Fall is an attractive season, dashed with beautifully mixed colors. The days are neither too long nor too short, and the weather is cool and usually comfortable. The early morning air is rather snappy, but the sun warms the land a bit during the middle hours of daylight. There's usually a brisk breeze blowing all day and into the night. Leaves of several colors soar smartly down to earth, as others hang on 'til they can no longer do so.

Fall is the season of the leaves' festival. The trees have grown for years, but the bright young leaves have bloomed only for one season. Now that fall has arrived, the leaves have turned to colors that, when blended in with a blue sky, a sparkling snow, a flowing stream, or an attractive roadway, create one of the most colorful and beautiful scenes on the earth! It is a time when each leaf finally says good-bye to its existence, then waits for the winds to carry it from its hold.

Fall can also be a scene of action and violence. A strong wind may brew up and blow for days, completely wiping out the leaf population. It can happen quickly, for when the leaves have changed color they are ready to drop. Along come the violent winds and leaves fly in all directions, blowing about wildly.

A pretty fall season is when the leaves turn slowly into bright colors, setting up beautiful scenes with nature's other resources. The light breezes in the fall make the leaves merry and the season gay.

FLYING SAUCERS

Professor Google was, as usual, in his study, working on the latest research about flying saucers. Suddenly, with a great leap, he rose from his chair and with a loud voice called to his wife.

"I've got it! I've got it! Liza, come here quickly! I know what the flying saucers really are!"

His wife, Liza, who had been all over this a hundred times or more, merely gave a casual remark about how nice that was and continued her knitting.

The Professor stormed into the room shouting, "Nice! Nice! Is that all you have to say? Here I have made science, and all you say is, 'Isn't that nice!' Bah! You are just like a woman."

This discussion turned into another of the Google's frequent quarrels. After many harsh words the Professor thundered out of the room and locked himself in his study with his research work.

Upon going carefully over his studies, Professor Google found a mistake in his calculations. The saucers were not what he had thought them to be at all. Another failure! Oh, why couldn't he succeed in just one of his many experiments?

Finally, after hours of "brain work," the Professor again thought he had discovered what the white, saucer-shaped things really were. With an excited voice he called to Liza. No answer! He called again. No answer! Venturing out of his study, he stepped into the hall. Hearing someome behind him open the china cabinet door, he turned around. Then, he too, saw flying saucers.

THE CASE OF THE ROTTEN TOMATO

The date was September the 24th, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and forty one. The place was the Jones's living room and those present were Mr. Jones; Mrs. Jones; Timmy, the culprit; and a jury of three sisters who, by the looks on their faces, were taking pleasure in this court session. Timmy had pleaded innocent to the charge of throwing a rotten tomato at old Mr. Smith's stove pipe hat.

Mr. Jones, acting as Judge, called the defendant before him saying: "At about two-thirty Saturday afternoon, Mr. Smith was taking his usual stroll to the pool room. As he passed the fence in back of this house a rotten tomato came from an unknown place, knocking his hat from his head. Please Timothy, try to explain yourself. What is your alibi?"

At the end of this statement a chorus of giggles were heard from the jury.

Coming to his own defense, Timmy began a long and detailed explanation of his doings of the afternoon. He ended his speech with the fact that he had been chasing Widder Brown's turkeys when he met Mr. Smith coming down the road grumbling to himself.

Judge Jones, as he listened to the defendant, recollected his afternoon activities. Vaguely in his mind was the fact that on that very afternoon, he had thrown a rotten tomato at a neighbor's cat who was howling from the top of the fence. It could be that he was the guilty one.

Tapping on the desk he announced, "The defendant has proven his innocence. Case dismissed."

MORNING EXERCISES

Rise at 7:00 a.m. Open the window wide and stand in the middle of the room. Raise arms slowly over head ten times, each time taking a deep breath and saying, "What a faculty." Finally lower arms in attitude of profound despair for a count of ten.

Extend body flat downward on the floor, cover eyes with hands, kick heels against the floor, think of over-flowing regiment of detention slips, the scarcity of pass slips, and weel, 'till dry.

Kneel, wring hands, meditate upon the Latin assignment and groan one hundred and fifty times.

Assume sitting posture, hands on hips, sway gently to and fro, concentrating on the horrifying, terrifying, "disasterfying" fact that we slave away in this knowledge-building factory nine out of twelve months every year and such big vacations!

Collapse on the floor. Growl vigorously as you think of the digestive system of the earthworm, accent marks, $2a+2b=4ab$, the invigorating pains one enjoys after his gym-eralysis sets in, the striking resemblence of literature terms in Greek; at the same time gnash the teeth noisily.

NOTE: By observing this simple set of morning exercises every day before breakfast, you will get to school with most of the vexations and annoyances of the day out of your system, and be able to give your most capable and undivided attention to the business at hand.

HOOKEY

The cop was around the corner,
And he caught me by surprise,
For I was playing hookey.
This much he did surmise.

He grabbed me by the collar,
And turned me around about.
He told me I should be in school,
And this I did not doubt.

LITERARY

He took me to the Principal,
Who smiled my faith to win,
And then his mouth turned fragile,
Once the office we were in.

He asked where I was going;
I was supposed to be in school!
But the joke was on them,
I was playing April Fool.

MOUNT DESERT ISLAND, MAINE

Did you ever wonder what or where Mount Desert Island was before you came here? Did you think that there was a bridge or a ferry to the mainland? Let me tell you about Mount Desert Island as I would tell a foreigner!

To get to Mount Desert Island from Boston and all points south, follow U. S. Route 1 to Ellsworth, then follow signs to Bar Harbor, Northeast Harbor or Southwest Harbor. These towns are on Mount Desert Island. To get onto the island you go over a bridge to Thompson's Island. From there you go onto Mount Desert Island by a land pass. Now let us sight-see the island.

Bar Harbor is our first stop. Bar Harbor is a nationally known summer resort. Here we can go deep-sea fishing or visit small neighboring islands. Along Ocean Drive you would find a beautiful sand beach, a large cave and Thunder Hole. You might wonder what Thunder Hole is. Well, it is a water-beated hole in a huge cliff. Each time a wave goes into the hole it makes a sound like thunder. Besides all these things, you could enjoy Cadillac Mountain, an eighteen hole golf course and a bowling alley.

Northeast Harbor would be our next stop. Our main interest here would be beautiful trees, houses and summer cottages on the shore.

Then we come to Southwest Harbor. Since I live here it might sound like a better place. The first thing we would come to would be the Cause-way Golf Club. This is a well-kept, nine hole course. Also here at the club are a salt water swimming pool and two tennis courts. If you yearn for a boat ride we would go to Manset, which is part of Southwest Harbor, to the Boat House. There you could rent a sail boat, a speed boat or a row boat.

Continuing on we would next come to Seawall. There is hardly a minute that somebody is not sight-seeing down there. It is, as far as I am concerned, the prettiest place on the island. In the month of November the tail end of a hurricane usually reaches Mount Desert Island. At Seawall the waves go so high that they wash out the road.

Now that we have covered the main places of interest of each town, let us go back and take in Acadia National Park. Acadia Park covers about half of the island. Its headquarters are at Bar Harbor. Some of its interesting points are Cadillac Mountain, Thunder Hole, and the camping grounds at Seawall.

You see, here are some of the things you might do and see on Maine's largest island, Mount Desert Island, and in Maine's only National Park, Acadia National Park.

THE BASKETBALL TEAM

The men have been chosen
By Coach Killilea.
They're as good a team
As you'll ever see.

First, there is Gilley
The tallest man.
If anyone can score
He surely can.

Then, there is Carroll,
The Sophomore pride.
But he's an enemy
To the opposite side.

Next come the Kelleys
John and Everett by name.
Wherever they play,
They play a good game.

The fifth man is Beal
Who rates as a guard.
To help all the others
We know he works hard.

Then comes Craig,
Another guard on the floor.
Among the first five
He helps raise the score.

The next man is a guard
Whose name is Jay,
He's a valuable man
At blocking the way.

Then, there is Carleton;
Shots are easy for him.
When he shoots for the basket
They usually go in.

On the floor, working hard
There's a guard named Dave.
There'll be many games
He'll help the team save.

Reynolds, a forward,
With a sharp, shooting eye,
Helps the team
Raise the score sky high.

There is Dicky Brown
Who plays for both teams.
Though he's quite small,
He does much it seems.

The new, fast guard
Is Edwin Brown.
He's only a substitute,
But really goes to town.

With John Killilea
Coaching the team,
We know they'll be
Always on the beam.

LITERARY

The season of "53"
Will be the best yet.
The Coach and his team
We won't ever forget.

THE MOONLIGHT AND THE SEA

The moon is shining,
And the wind is blowing
Over the sea tonight.

The white caps are bouncing
And spray is flying,
Making a beautiful sight.

The waves roll in and out again,
Looking like castles to me.
What could be a more beautiful sight,
Than the moonlight and the sea?

Fellow Students of Pemetic:

I am a Junior in the Okinawa American Dependent School I have spent ten of my school years in Southwest Harbor. At times I have wished I were anywhere but Pemetic. Now I wish I were back there with my class.

I will try to explain to you some of the ways in which the school here on Okinawa differs from Pemetic.

Each family lives on a base. School busses go through the different area to take the students safely to school.

When we arrive at school we only have five to ten minutes to get to classes. Our buildings are only Quonset Huts painted green and white. These are the colors of the basketball team which I represent.

We do not have the modern desks like you now have; ours are like those we had when we were in the grade school. Most of them are about three sizes too small. We don't have paper issued to us like you do. We buy our own at the Post Exchange. They give us one pencil a month.

We have American teachers who give us twice as much homework as I ever had in Pemetic.

Instead of detentions we have demerits. These are given in great quantities for various reasons. It takes only fifteen for a student to be suspended from school.

Most of the students are American, but we have a few Filipinos and one Okinawan.

We don't have a good gym like you do at Pemetic. Ours is made of cement and we receive some bad floor burns on the floor.

I am always looking forward to next September when I will go back to Pemetic. I'm sure I will appreciate everything it has.

A MAJESTIC MOUNTAIN IN MAINE

Mount Katahdin, the highest point in Maine, is 5,267 feet high. It is located about 130 miles northeast of Augusta, in a region surrounded by nothing but wilderness. It was first climbed by Charles Potter, Jr., a Boston surveyor, in 1804. Science claims that the sun first shines on the United States at dawn on the summit of Mount Katahdin, which is Baxter Peak.

The slopes are greatly scarred by the glaciers which covered it during the Ice Age. Rocks are still occasionally found on the slopes with fossils on them of sea shells and sea animals.

Katahdin has numerous trails which altogether total a network of seventy-five miles.

The name Katahdin comes from the word Ktdaan, which is Indian, meaning "big mountain". The Indians used Katahdin and the surrounding area as a summer camping ground. They worshiped the spirits which they believed inhabited the mountain.

Katahdin has changed very little in stature from the rugged mountain it must have been before the Ice Age; only now it is a little more worn than it was.

Katahdin has not become commercial in a modern sense. This is due to the establishment of the National Forestry Service which stations rangers to help preserve its natural beauty.

It seems that one of the qualifications for becoming a ranger is to have the art of story-telling, for most rangers always have a treasure chest of stories and legends. One of the tales which never fails to shock people, both young and old, is the legend of Three-Fingered Willie.

Not long ago (the exact date is not known) there were many lumbering camps around Mount Katahdin. In one particular camp, there were stationed three men, to finish up the logging in that region. One of the men was known as Three-Fingered Willie. An accident had previously taken two of the fingers on his right hand off. Willie was known for his quick temper and his two comrades, Jock and Frazer, were careful not to excite him.

One afternoon while they were cutting trees, Jock's axe slipped from the trunk of the tree he had put it in, while he was doing something else. Willie was leaning against the tree, and when the axe fell it cut off his foot just below the ankle.

Now Frazer had observed all this in stunned horror and knowing Willie's explosive temper, he dared not go near Willie for fear of Willie blaming him, so he immediately ran to find Jock. Together they decided to leave while they could. They hastily gathered their belongings and left.

Willie lay there all afternoon and night. At last he summoned strength enough to drag himself to the camp, where he nursed himself back to health.

Meanwhile his temper had not abated. He was able to get around now, but he walked with a bad limp. When he walked, he sounded like "Thump! Dra-a-a-g. Thump! Dra-a-a-g." So he wandered all over Katahdin preying on unsuspecting victims for his food. If they did not run when they heard him coming, they died from his stick he used for walking.

Three-Fingered Willie still lives today. People say that he will live forever taking out his revenge on Jock by attacking the people of the Katahdin Mountain area. On still nights and even on stormy nights, you can hear Willie crashing through the woods; always his "Thump! Dra-a-a-g! Thump! Dra-a-a-g."

Katahdin will always be the same as long as it is a state park. When Baxter died he left money for a park but in his will he made the stipulation that there should never be a road to the summit.

During the winter, snow lays a peaceful blanket on the mountain as if giving the king a rest between seasons. Civilization may change; great men may come and go, but Katahdin will always remain the same; majestic, firm and powerful, and never disturbed by the world around it.

In 1951 we, the students of Pemetic High presented "Pa" with a beautiful wrist watch as a token of our appreciation for all he has done for the school and also to mark his first 25 years of janitor of this school.

In 1951, Alton Wentworth, better known as "Little Pa", came to Pemitic. In the short while he has been here his willingness to help has showed us that he, too, will someday live up to the name of "Pa".
